Young businesses are crucial for creating jobs and boosting the growth and competitiveness of Europe's economy in the next years. One of the EU's top priorities is to encourage entrepreneurship, to support sustainable growth and to stimulate a business environment friendlier to SMEs.

SME-TraiNet is an international stakeholder network that is aimed at fostering the dialogue between European young businesses/ SMEs, European Chambers of Commerce, European associations and European guidance and training providers.

It is particularly dedicated to the improvement of current training and guidance support for young businesses by sharing best practices on international level and adjusting existing offers.

The 1st International conference:

- gives an overview of European SME- policies
- gives room to discuss the training needs of young SME's
- gives the opportunity to share international best practice examples of training and consultancy services for young SME's

1st International Conference

05th-07th May 2010

Helsinki (Finland)
